Dear Diary,

You know today I am very sad. You know why? Because today we lost inter-school quiz competition. The questions were really easy and me and my friend ~~also~~ answered all correctly but the last question was too hard we were not able to do that and then we lost because other team answered that question. When I came home I cried a lot because the answer was very easy. And then my mother explained me that I ~~did not~~ should cry ~~for~~ just because of a simple question, next time prepare more well and win. She also encouraged me. Just because of her I became happy and promised myself and my mom to ~~practice~~ practice more to win....

Ok bye, mom is calling me for dinner.

Yrs
